

ABSTRACT

A body dryer includes a housing having a convex front wall, a pair of side walls, a top wall, a bottom wall and a rear wall. The housing is pivotally mounted on a support stand. A hot air blower assembly is received within the housing 5 interior for projecting a stream of hot air through a plurality of vents positioned on the convex front wall. The heat intensity is selectively varied with a switch positioned on the top wall of the housing.